At 2:30 in the afternoon there will be a conference led by Mrs. Crocker, and she has invited each state president to speak for two minutes upon some special point of conservation work or upon the needs of her state along that line. The subject of civil service reform will be handled by Mrs. Imogen B. Oakley of Philiadelphia, who is national chairman of that department and who will conduct the afternoon conference, which will have as its general topic "How Best to Increase the Interest in Efficient Local Government." Several members of the General Pederation civil services reform department will speak briefly to this subject and the discussion will be general. The music department, of which Mrs. Maxwell of Ohio is chairman, will have in charge the music to be rendered in connection with the memorial services to Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, to be held on Sunday afternoon. On President's night the different state president's night will obviate the necessity of making announcements from the platform and thus taking valuable time from the convention. siding, the reports of the chairmen showed the work accomplished during the month of February. The reports follow: Three hundred children were cared for in the day nursery, 48 chil-dren are enrolled in the kindergarten; the two sessions daily have an average attendance of 36; 727 books were issued from the library. The Mothers' club of 20 members held two meetings during the month, one in the after-noon, when an instructive talk was followed by refreshments, and the other an evening session, at which the day nursery mothers were entertained with games, music and refreshments. Four girls' clubs met regularly each week. The sewing class of 70 children and The sewing class of 70 children and the story hour were conducted each Saturday morning. The boys' club met Monday evenings. One session was devoted to an informal concert. The dispensary, with a visiting trained nurse in attendance, is open one hour each morning. A Tuesday evening series of illustrated lectures and entertainment is being given under Jay Stockton's direction. Every evening the large kindergarten room has been filled to its capacity.

They are based on legends, events in history or happenings in ordinary life. Since they are the natural outbursts of the people they show strong racial characteristics. In the north are found the melancholy minor strains while in the south the music is more vivacious. Because in very early times music was not recorded much has perished. But without doubt some of the melodies have come down to the present time with perhaps but little the present time with perhaps but little change. About the twelfth century musicians became accustomed to select a well known melody and use this as a foundation or theme and weave around it melodies of their own creation. As most musicians of that time were connected with the service of the church connected with the service of the church it was most natural that sacred words should go with the music. The folk songs of ancient Palestine were chiefly of three kinds, the joyous bridal song, the cheerful harvest or vintage song and the wailing funeral song. All nations and races have expressed themselves in their songs and a careful study of some of the great masters show that in many of their best works they have been influenced by the folk songs.

The Central W. C. T. U. held an interesting meeting Friday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. parlors. Miss Freda Dressel, superintendent of literature, had charge of the programme, which was in honor of Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, national W. C. T. U. president, whose birthday is annually observed as "Union Signal" day. Mrs. Rachel L. Davis led the devotional exercises. The roll call responses showed world-wide advances in the prohibition movement. A stirring and patriotic song composed by J. G. Dailey of Philadelphia, "A Saloonless Nation in 1920," was sung by the union. A sketch of the life of Mrs. Stevens was read by Mrs. S. S. Smith. Union Signal experiences were given by Mrs. Henry W. Pratt and a discussion led by Mrs. Richard McTavish followed. A beautifully solo was sung by Mrs. Margaret Stanley Schick entitled "All Round the World the Ribbon White Is Twined." Renewals and new subscriptions for the national paper the Union Signal, were taken. The hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. George Murdock and Miss Ella Phillips.
